'Gappy' Levee Talks

A meeting at 10 o'clock this morning will bring Glades area and Hendry County delegations together to discuss the "gappy levee" or revised plan for L-2 and L-3.

Not quite clear to the landowner and representatives planning to attend this morning's meeting was whether Central & Southern Florida Flood Control board would send an official, or whether only the Corps of Engineers would formalize the meeting with their presence.

The new or revised levee plan, as explained previously by the Engineers, is to assure "equal flood protection" to Hendry landowners east and west of the proposed levees between Clewiston and LaBelle.

Original Best Plan

The original plan provided flood protection east of the levee alignment, or from just west of Clewiston east into Palm Beach County. But, according to the Engineers, the plan as originally set down "would cause increased water impoundment and subsequent flooding in the rapidly developing area west of the alignment."

The "gappy" levee now proposed as Stage I of the new construction would be built with frequent wide gaps to permit the free passage of water through them until such time as the levee in the area could be completed.

At a meeting in Clewiston Sept. 30, the "gappy" levee plan was fully explained by members of the Hendry County representatives except those which, like the Glades lands, lie east of the proposed new levees.

"Dikes With Holes"

The Glades delegation meeting in a preliminary session Wednesday night at Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce offices, expressed themselves understandably against having "dikes with holes in them," and feel the proposed revision isn't in line with previous planning.

What they hope to do this morning is to come to an agreement or compromise with the Hendry group so that people on both sides of the new levee will be satisfied. One thought was that the levee proposed low level of road be runned to afford some protection across the "gaps" during high water.

Another alternative, the group agreed, might be to place the site of L-2 and L-3 be shifted west to where the Hendry County group has proposed an airport canal running south from L-1, the latter not to be built with federal funds. Putting the "gappy" levees east of the canal further in place of the canal might solve the problem, the group thought.

However, the heart of the problem today is to effect a compromise so that the $900,000 available now for L-2 and L-3 will not be held up or spent else where in case of a violent squabble between the Hendry and Glades groups.

Final Meet Thurs. Next Thursday, the G&SF governing board is due to meet for final consideration of the revised plan, at Clewiston.

Attending the Wednesday night meeting were Lawrence Will, J. F. Waddell, Joe Friedheim, A. E. Early, Sam Knight, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Young, 1 McIntyre, Albert Fremd, Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Mrs. Alma W. Farrow, Mrs. A. M. Okie, Luther Jones, R. Y. Creech, Henry Harwood, Emmett Roberts, Mrs. Mary Foy, James A. Ball, Jr., John L. Evans, and C. A. Thomas. From Clewiston, attending the meeting were W. C. Owens, and Frank E. Conkling, of U.S. Sugar Corp.

CLOSE SWORN, AS IS BOARD

BELLE GLADE — With the swearing-in of Herman Close as newly-appointed member of the South Western Palm Beach County public hospital board, the other four board members of Belle Glade Memorial Hospital reaffirmed their oaths of office at the regular monthly meeting here Monday.

Member Harold Robin was present at the meeting, in his first official appearance since a recent illness, and with Chairman Herbert Beck and Members C. A. Thomas and Fritz Stein, swore to "well and faithfully perform" the duties of board membership.

At the beginning of the meeting, Beck announced that he for one was going to take the oath again, when Close was sworn in by Administrator Donald Parke, and invited the others to join.

No By-Law Report

Parke reported that as yet no report on the proposed revision of the medical by-laws of the hospital had been received from the medical staff. The revision was suggested during board meetings the previous two weeks, as a way to improve both the hospital and medical service.

'Flu Might Just Do Trick, But Rams Wait; Pahokee Plays Home

Lake Worth may be 1,000th and tied for Suncoast first on paper, but reports that the Trojans are weakened with the 'flu.

The Pahokee Blue Devils, on the other hand, are carrying 800 in the League, with the first-place shadows of Clewiston and Lake Worth over their heads, and are ready for Okeechobee at Lair Field tonight.

PAHOKEE 28 - SEAHAWKS 6

The Blue Devils have chewed up four teams this season, the latest being Seacrest Seahawks last week, 28-6.

Hal Rosenberg went right on being the streaking one of all, as the Devils broiled Seacrest with three TD's in the first quarter.

Rip rallied off for the first score, and George Mills was right there to make the conversion on an end run. Then Richard Weeks took a cool 69 yards for the Devil's second TD, and that efficient Mills to Chat Clark pass chalked up another point.

Rosenberg went over again in the first quarter, and this time Jerry Roberts made the point. That put the shootin' match at 21-0 at the period.

After Rosenberg went 85 yards in the last quarter and Mills this time passed to Don Waddell for the point, the Seahawks suddenly rallied and got the ball over the line for six points.

However, it was Pahokee all the way, and nobody, least of all the Seahawks, could dispute that.

CORN GROWERS MONDAY, EXP. STA.

All Glades corn growers have been invited by John H. Causey, assistant county agricultural agent, to gather at Everglades Experiment Station Monday to see the results of various sprays used on Southern corn leaf blight.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at the station.

Dr. R. S. Cox, pathologist at the station, who has done the work on the control, will explain the materials used, and the results obtained, Causey said.

The Florida State University School of Music presents around 140 concerts, student recitals and faculty recitals each year.

RAMS 18 - STUART 6

With something akin to the clash of victory cymbals in the air, the Golden Rams stashed their first Suncoast triumph away last week against Stuart, 18-6.

Walt Mosley was the key stone, but several other Rams were playing, too. Mosley went over in the first quarter, but there was the flick of a flag, and back went the ball. Mosley was chugged back up to Stuart's one-yard stripe, and then Bobby Joe Thomas sneaked over.

In the second quarter, Stuart's main threat Fred Reddish got into a fumble, but John Heaton leaped far enough on the ball and Stuart had its 6 points.

In the third quarter, the Rams went right on down, and Wayne Bair made the TD. Then in the fourth, Len Burkett took off for 87 yards, and the Rams tucked away another TD.

Tonight the Rams are ready for another win, and just may get Cal Peacock's boys are going to get it.

RABIES SHOTS 30th FOR PAHOKEE K-9s

PAHOKEE — Saturday, Oct. 30, the 30th anniversary of Pahokee must have their dogs vaccinated against rabies if they are over six months of age and not previously vaccinated.

Councilman Louis F. Mims, sanitation commissioner, said that the inoculations are required by city ordinance, and that dog owners must have evidence of their pets' rabies shots and this year's dog tags after the 30th day of the month.

Dr. Clarence Kidder will inoculate the pooches between 10 and 11 a.m. that day. "Booster" shots will also be administered. Dogs picked up untended or unvaccinated after that time will be taken to the dog pound and if not picked up within a few days will be sent to the Animal Rescue League in West Palm Beach, it was announced.

FREE RIDE for two young'uns is furnished by CAP's Sam Belk, of Pahokee.

GLADES CIVIL AIR PATROL STARTS CADET ENLISTMENT

The Glades Civil Air Patrol's new cadet unit will hold its first meeting Sunday at 1 p.m. at Belle Glade Airport, with new cadets to bring prospective members 15 years old or over.

Fourteen signed up to be CAP cadets at the air show last Sunday, including Dow McClelland, Canal Point; Jerry Edwards, Frier, Shirley Fink, Richard Sands, and Bobby Cartwright, Belle Glade; John Usher, Jack Stanley, and Val Gabaldon, Pahokee; Jeanne Whitlitz, South Bay.

A. E. Funderburk, Pahokee, is commander of cadets for the Glades CAP, and B. E. Weeks, Belle Glade, is captain of the local CAP Flight.

The cadet program was launched last Sunday at Belle Glade Airport, where 135 free airplane rides were given by Glades CAP members. Some 350 visitors saw the demonstration of an Air Force rescue helicopter and nearly half of them chicken barbecue, profits from which will go to the cadet program.

To launch the Glades cadet program, CAP and Air Force officers were visitors, including Col. Zell Altman, commanding officer of CAP Group 5, of which the Glades unit is a part.

Dividing his discussion of hospital operation into four parts, Reel, speaking at the regular Tuesday lunch meeting of the Lions Club, covered points on hospital responsibility, a safe structure, equipment and facilities, and the philosophy of the personnel managing and operating the hospital.

"Hospitals must accept, in fact are obligated to accept the full weight and responsibility for the care of charity and indigent needs of the area they serve," Reel said. "No factor should enter into the admission of any patient except 'Is he or isn't he sick.' Twenty-one percent of the Everglades Memorial billings last year were free charity. Reel stated, "So certainly the hospital is accepting its full share of this responsibility."

Rate Structure Comparing EMH rates to figures taken from a survey conducted by the Florida Hospital Association, Reel stated that out of the 25 separate rate classifications in the survey, the local hospital stood with 14 lower than average, and 11 higher.

Of the six higher, four are on the high side of average and two are "off base," he said. The two are the charges for general anesthesia and X-rays.

HARRELL BURNED AT BEAN CITY

BEAN CITY — A J. Harrell, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrell of Bean City was injured Monday at 11:30 a.m. when a flash fire caught his clothes on fire in the 40 ft. pipe in which he was welding. He was in the pipe welding an end on the pipe when the oxygen hose, which was pumping in oxygen for him to breathe, broke and the oxygen became ignited and caused a flash fire.

Harrell managed to get out of the pipe and call for help. One of the engineers brought him to Belle Glade Memorial Hospital. The extent of his burns cannot be determined for about five days, according to Dr. R. L. Pipes, who attended him.

Mrs. Graham listed as den members, Mrs. R. B. Simonson, Mrs. Webb Pell, Mrs. Earl Crossman, Mrs. Norman Kennedy, Mrs. E. H. Walton, Mrs. Joe Tombs, Mrs. Webb Pell, and Mrs. Phillips. Mrs. Thurmond Knight, Mrs. Dave Cunningham, Mrs. E. L. Pope, Mrs. Edgar Wilder, Mrs. Jimmy Thomas, Mrs. Louis Mims, Mrs. E. R. Wagnon, and Mrs. Graham.

Principal courses to be taught are: Art, ceramics, metal work, complete and official will include ham radio instruction, printing, woodworking, leathercraft, and ceramics.

A current Cub project is the sale of Blue Devil earrings, key chains, barrettes, and other team items at Bolton's Drug Store, Berry's Paint Store, Parish Jewelry Store, and at the post office, Mrs. Graham said.

Zoning Future Better

PAHOKEE — A doubled Negro residential area, an expanded industrial zone adjacent to the necessary transportation connections, and a set of new zoning boundaries will probably be the outcome of a series of meetings here this week.

With a new set of aerial maps of the Pahokee area under his arm from the Central & Southern Florida Flood Control District, the Florida Planning and Zoning Association's executive director, Frederick H. Bair, Jr. went back into conference with City Council and the special zoning committee.

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, Bair, Zoning Committee Otto Blech, Willey Tillis, and Bob Apelgren, City Board Inspector Frank Thompson, and the members of City Council were hard at work on zoning changes.

Yet To Go With public hearings, more mapping, and ordinance changes yet to go, the group nevertheless has laid out a larger area for the Negro section, and hopes to hold at 6,000 ft. lot restrictions.

(2) Tentatively put the airport site, formerly Frank Thompson, and the members of City Council were hard at work on zoning changes.

Bair said he will help work on the sections of the zoning and building ordinances with Council members, and will return another meeting on the changes.

Council Praised Paying a compliment to the City Council, Bair said that it was "encouraging" to find interest by city officials in rezoning and planning at its very start.

He said that he was only become interested in such things long after they are well under way, and then are caught completely flatfooted as to why the changes were necessary."

The fact that the Pahokee Council has shown its interest by attending all meetings of the zoning committee and Bair is "encouraging, to say the least," the FFAA official said.

'Hey Day' Plans Are Complete

PAHOKEE — All is in readiness for the "Blue Devils' Halloween" celebration, scheduled at City Park Saturday night, Oct. 30, starting promptly at 7:30, according to Mrs. E. J. Jones, chairman of the committee.

The carnival, sponsored annually by the Pahokee PTA, is expected to be one of the best. Both the children and the older folk are urged to participate, for it is a combined fund-raising and fun-making project, the committee members said.

Mrs. Roy Vandegriff, jr. reports that all questions and suggestions concerning the event were made Monday. Any group desiring to have assistance with their booths are to call on the construction committee headed by L. E. O'Neal and the FFAA.

ED. NOTE: WHEN OBSERVER Reader Valerie Vondermuhl, of New York City, wrote of plans for a world-circling vacation, we asked her to record some of her impressions and drop them in whatever mailbox she found. What the mail brought this week follows.

BY VALERIE VONDERMUHL

Our trip up to Kandy, a town about 75 miles from Colombo, Ceylon, was our introduction to the easy way of spending money in these parts. We had contracted for a car, and English-speaking driver to take us to Kandy and on the next day to Nuwara Eliya (pronounced Nuwara) another attraction of Ceylon. Our driver was reputed to be competent particularly on telling us who to tip and how much.

We started off bravely, our car at the ready. At first we drove through rice fields and small villages. Gradually, thanks to Perera's commentary, we began to spot rubber, coconut plantations, coffee and pepper plants, betel nuts and many flowers and trees that were new to us. One of the perils ahead came when we asked what a yellow-orange fruit was—it was the king coconut used only for drinking. Perera promptly drew up at the roadside stand, said a few words and bungee there were having a contest of drinking from the coconut. It had a vague melony taste. We beamed at the lovely-looking girl who had chopped off the top of the coconut and said something in Sinhalese to Perera: "One rupee" he said. While we were fishing for words, we were introduced to fresh cashews (bland) and then to the toasted variety (excellent but very hot, probably fresh pepper). "Two rupees" now said Perera.

A little further on two men were plowing a rice field with two yoke buffalo. They were plowing through the mud apparently oblivious to the traffic on the highway. I slipped out, took two quick pictures and drove back into the car. Before I could lean back two muddy hands were thrust in the window. "60 cents took care of that. Fortunately the water buffalo hadn't noticed me."

Soon we began to see tea plants, then tea factories and inevitably we were inside on a guided tour—six minutes did the business and we were out again minus one rupee.

Next Used The next stop was unusual—no money-changed hands. In a low dark building about 10 women were grinding up graphite (the stuff that ends up in pencil lead) from coal-chunk size to a granular form. They showed us, admired my permanent-pleated cotton skirt, lined up for a picture and waved us off.

We checked in at the Kandy hotel and after lunch headed for the Temple of the Tooth which houses a tooth of Buddha and is the last palace of the dynasty that ruled Ceylon until 1815. The spot is quite lovely alongside an artificial lake. Before we knew what had happened, a charming old man was "guiding" us around. Perera loitered on the outskirts. We were shown some minor temple buildings (dutifully leaving our shoes at the door) and then went through the palace (a U.S. rest camp during World War II, and now a museum) and then through the library. Our guide was terribly proud of the 10,000 volumes and the fact that he had shown Woodrow Wilson through the collection. We added our names to the list of distinguished visitors and dutifully noted the printed appeal for funds and the five rupee notes carefully dropped in a drawer—two rupees more gone. (And eight for our guide.)

The elephants were next on the list. By now we were wary. "Are these for tourists?" we asked. They were, so we stopped and got some small change. It seems that the elephants work in the morning and pose for the tourists in the afternoon. We climbed up on a couple, had our pictures taken (the keepers took over the fancy cameras as if they were the simplest box-type) and took a few of ourselves with our cameras. The head man, two each for those in charge of our rides—four disgruntled men left over.

Royal Gardens

Next we visited the Royal Botanical Gardens, a stunning display of tropical flowers, shrubs and trees in a beautifully landscaped setting. Perera knew most species by sight, and name tags helped us on the rest. We admired four different avenues of palm trees—all different types—chewed on the bark of the cinnamon tree and watched the afternoon shadows fall. It looked as if we would get home "free" but we hadn't seen the orchids yet. Before we knew it, another charming older with the shiny badge of a guide was leading us through some of the wonderful flowers. Mosquito orchids, a far prettier lady slipper than the U.S. variety, a green orchid with markings on its petals—and we were getting samples to take home. We felt a bit better about parting with our rupees since we had been nothing perfunctory about the tour. Our guide lived for that part of the Gardens and his enthusiasm was touching and catching.

Back to the hotel to count our money and then off to the regular 7 p.m. hour when the temple is closed. We came to the temple. It was impressive despite our new guide, a snag-toothed gentleman who kept running down Woodrow Wilson's friend and forcing us to stop over, around and in front of those who had come for serious religious purposes. Fragrant masses of blossoms in front of each image of Buddha (we went to several) and in the Temple of the Tooth itself behind the elaborate doorway inlaid with silver and ivory. Fifty cents in one of the "collection" plates and we were out in the night air telling our guide that "No, we saw the library this afternoon" and "Yes, we've seen the Temple of the Tooth." That's the end of the tour. "That's the guide's answer—four rupees was handed over. There was some muttering—probably our guide had boasted of the guide that we had given him eight—but we paid no attention."

Next Day Better

The next day we drove up to a valley 6,000 feet up in the mountains. Poor Perera couldn't get us near a tea factory, a temple or even a creek picking tea on a steep hillside—at least not for picture-taking purposes. We stuck to views of distant mountains, waterfalls and shots of our roads snaking up the mountainside.

Looking back on the trip we are less annoyed than we were. Certainly we don't begrudge the few pennies we gave the men in the rice fields—they probably only made a dollar a week—and we hope the picture we got will be good. As for the guide and elephant men, we only wish there had been a flat fee or even a minimum charge. Otherwise the tourist is tied to—and although one or two rupees may be only 20-35 cents U.S., in giving even that much you may perpetuate the myth of stretch of highway for several weeks. That's what's known as being cautious.

It is my sad duty to report this week the passing of Charlie, my old rabbit-chasing crotch in Virginia. Goodbye, Charlie. Until we inevitably meet again, running celestial rabbits together.

BY SCHATZI

Hopping up into the lowest-slung car for low-slung dogs, I posed the question.

"What is that awful goo on the windshield of your Studebaker?" I inquired of Mr. Fred Bair of Auburndale. Mr. Bair is the man who helps Belle Glade and Pahokee wage war on faulty zoning regulations.

"Oh," he replied, nonchalantly chewing on his pipe, "I just drove through a swarm of bees." "Heavens, have you seen a doctor?" I said, purposefully.

Mr. Bair hushed and calmed me and pointed out that if I would stop my nervous barking, he would tell me more.

Ordinarily, I would not clutter up this column with a lot of bees, being on the waspish side myself, but how many people drive through swarms of bees, especially on Connor's Highway?

I'm speaking of that stretch of Connor's from Canal Point to 20-Mile Bend, resurfacing of which is taking nearly the length of time it took to build a four-lane turnpike across the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Bair said he was struggling through the potholes on the highway the other day, when lo and behold, ahead of him loomed a small dark cloud. With one eye he saw a truck pulled to the side of the road. And he observed that this truck was full of beehives.

Quick as a wink he rolled up the car windows, surmising correctly that the small dark cloud would be noisy with stingers. Then he plowed on through the bees.

"But what," I asked, "Were the bees doing out there like that?" "I should stop and ask them?" he replied, rather wisely I thought.

So now Mr. Bair has company in his wonderment at how the bees got out of the hive and whether the man who was bee-mooving ever got the bees put back in the hive, less those fatally smitten by Mr. Bair's Studebaker.

As for myself, I will not ride with the bosses on that those Americans who throw their money around boastfully. Tomorrow we are off to see the seven rock-cut pagodas of Mahabalipuram. Our guide has already told us that we can get pictures of the feeding of the white eagles. We know that trick—if it moves, we won't shoot it.

THERE'S NO CUTTING IT OUT

POLITICS IN FLORIDA: This column is not being written in Washington—but is being typed out on the porch—in the shade of a century old oak tree—with the blue waters of Lake Eustis trying to lure me away from my other visitors. This scene is due to haunt me in the coming months when the rough weather takes over the nation's capital. But I have a reason for being here.

With the general election right on top of us, the focus of news has shifted from Washington back to the individual districts. The candidates are on their hustings and the verbiage is flying. And to get the story it was necessary to come to Florida.

CORRECTION

An error in the make-up of last week's Florida National Bank at Belle Glade ad spoke of "higher interest on savings." This statement was not in accordance with the bank's policy, and was an error by this newspaper, which the editor deeply regrets.

Looked around Sarasota, where a real turnout of the Florida Congressional delegation was on hand to help Jim Haley in his fight against E. B. (Smoky) Sutton. Those on hand to help were Senator Holland and Congressmen Campbell, Bennett, Sikes, Herlong, Haley, and Matthews. This group appeared together in an exciting and lively two-hour panel of questions and answers staged in the Sarasota auditorium by the Kiwanis Club of Florida. Before and after this appearance, all joined in various fish fries, barbecues and other meetings to lend a hand to Haley.

One interesting side-light to these gatherings was the sight of Congressman Charlie Bennett always wearing his coat while the other visitors were more comfortable in their shirt sleeves. Looks like the talk about him running for the Senate is beginning to sink in.

And what does the race look like? If you talk to ardent Democrats, they will say Haley. If you run into a rabid Republican he will say Sutton. So, we took to the streets and talked to a cross-section of the people. Most of those we talked to, had never heard of either of the candidates and figured they weren't going to bother to vote at all.

Although many "issues" are being kicked around, the race as we see it boils down to just these items: 1. Can a Republican Congressman be elected in Florida? 2. Can outside (foreign) help sway a local election? Will the Democrats bother to go to the polls? We won't know the answers to these questions until Nov. 3. In the meantime, you try to figure it out.

ROBSEVATIONS

By BENJAMIN S. ROBERTS

DEAR SCHATZI:

Hurricane Hazel harassed Washington this week after plowing through North Carolina and Virginia. Maple and oak and willow trees do not give in the wind, they crack off in broken heaps leaving scarred stumps. Florida vegetation can better withstand forced winds than these. Radio newscasters would have you think that the Nation's Capitol was laid waste. Actually if the panic this storm engendered is an example of public behavior our chief city is more vulnerable to storm attack than one should expect.

The President returned from Denver at midnight after the storm charged to the north and Washington airport was again opened to traffic. The Pakistani Premier and his wife arrived the day before Hazel struck but were in New York for the storm's duration. Whatever else they have to report when they return to Pakistan "Hazel" will surely be on top of the list.

You would be interested in seeing the highways designated "civil defense" for use in case of enemy attack. Roads leading out of Washington to Baltimore and Annapolis are so marked, as are those to the west. Federal funds have financed, turnpikes here. One to Baltimore will be opened next Friday and the Annapolis road is expected to be finished before long. These four-lane highways, divided with planted parkways, pass through wonderful fall foliage at this time of the year. Signboards are not permitted along the highways and gasoline stations and motels are non-existent. Florida highway planners should take note.

Bancroft Hall still stands proudly on the Severn and the training ship Reina Mercedes seems as seaworthy as ever in spite of her being blown out in the storm's storm. Midshipmen on liberty and middies on deck indicate the state of readiness of the United States Navy. Carvel Hall is crowded with proud parents down to see their sons in training, and myriads of striking young ladies laden with hat boxes and suitcases down for a "hop."

Best wishes to you and Lisa.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

1712 Inwood Terrace S. Jacksonville 7, Fla. October 16, 1954

Dear Friends:

In today's mail, I received a letter from my niece, Mrs. Wilfred Liddeter, of Perrine, Fla., the former Miss Billie Danson of Florida, in which she enclosed a picture of another niece of mine, Linda Danson, which has made me very happy and I wish to express my deepest appreciation to whomever was responsible for it being in your paper. Up here, our papers do not be so generous seemingly and I am today sending her this clipping, which I know will make her happy, also.

She (Linda) has another cousin in Pahokee, a Mrs. Guthrie. Linda was so small when she lived down there and at that time, when she went to the Belle Glade School (1934-37) she was known as Vernon, then in high school and when she went overseas in the fall of 1946 and spring of 1947, she took her other name Elizabeth. However when she actually went into show business, the lady instructor of their dance routine suggested that she take the name of Linda, so if any of those that attended school at the same time she did, she is Vernon Danson.

Lived On Kreamer Her parents lived on Big Kreamer Island out in Lake Okeechobee, her late father Harry S. Danson and Billie's father, the late Walter T. Danson were farming together, also Billie's father used to be in business with the late Mr. Luther Knight, also Mr. Thorndorn Knight, it was the Lake Shore Supply Company.

My late brother Walter and Linda will soon be seen in Walter Wanger's latest picture, The Adventures of Hoor Baha and there are several articles of her in some of the recent TV magazines. Again many thanks, I'm sure she will be too.

Most sincerely, s/Mrs. O. B. (Elizabeth) Jay (Ed. Note: Linda Danson's photo appeared in "Pictures of the Week" in OBSERVER Oct. 1, 1954.)

BELLE GLADE BPW HEAR EMMETT ROBERTS

The Belle Glade Business and Professional Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Urcia Caruthers on Tuesday evening with Mrs. Anetia Wells as co-hostess. Emmett S. Roberts, representative of the Palm Beach County, was the guest speaker. His talk was based on the various steps which take place to pass a bill. He outlined the procedure it takes a subject matter from the time it is introduced until it becomes a law in both the House and Senate and explained the seven constitutional amendments which are coming up for a vote at the general election, Nov. 2. He gave the pros and cons for each amendment. Two of the seven amendments are of a local nature and the other five are statewide.

He also discussed the need for a revision of the state constitution. He stated that basically the constitution is good but because of the growth of the state in recent years there are parts of it which should be brought up-to-date because it is hindering progress.

LOOKING INTO THE FACTS...

NO PROTEIN — NO PRODUCTION

"There is no way of short-changing a cow on protein and still have a cow that will produce a calf every year. A cow short of protein will tend to have a calf one year and skip the next. She has to do this because she needs to recuperate and build body stores in order to conceive and give birth to another calf. This is nature's way of protecting her against the lack of protein."

AN OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS:

You, better than anyone else in Palm Beach County, know how well your children were protected under our student accident plan during the last school year. In spite of this record, your school board saw fit to disqualify our company and our plan and ask you to accept companies and plans which you do not know.

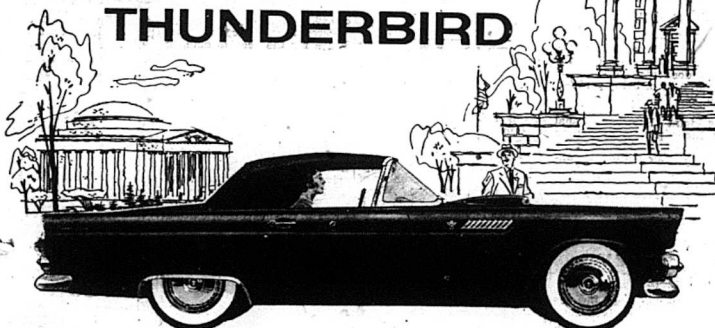

Our plan actually offers more benefits than the plans you are asked to accept, but still our company has been disqualified. This action has hurt the integrity of our company and our duly licensed agent, Mr. William A. Thieband of Belle Glade.

We actually paid more in medical payments on the injuries of your children than we received in premiums, yet we were willing to continue to offer this excellent protection for your children for the coming school year. But your school board says you cannot have our plan. Is this fair?

New FORD THUNDERBIRD

A personal car of distinction
...with Trigger-Torque performance

You'll be delighted at the wealth of conveniences the Thunderbird offers. Two tops are available... disappearing fabric top... and an easy-to-lift hard top. The extra-wide vinyl upholstered seat is foam-rubber-cushioned... power-operated 4-way windows roll up... by power, if you like. There is a tachometer... and a clock with sweep second hand. There is a telescoping steering wheel. And you can have power steering and power brakes.

Something totally fresh is here—a bewitching new all-steel body. And so the styling keynote for other Ford cars to come.

But, styling gives the merest hint of what the Thunderbird has to offer. In traffic and on the open road the Thunderbird's Trigger-Torque performance is literally a revelation. Here is hair-trigger response... fleet, liquid agility... backed by a reserve of swift, sure power to meet safety's every demand. Trigger-Torque performance stems from Ford's new Thunderbird Special V-8—a high-torque engine with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, wide-opening valves and Ford's famous low-friction design. And you can have the Thunderbird with the transmission of your choice—Conventional, Overdrive, or new Speed-Trigger Fordomatic.

Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension not only velvet-cushions your ride, it also allows the Thunderbird to handle with utmost ease—to corner with greatest stability.

But, more important, the Thunderbird is the product of the same advanced engineering... the same manufacturing skills that have made Ford products so dependable, so value-full and so desirable to so many.

"Serving the Savers & Home Owners of the Everglades"

FUTURE C-C BOB DISCUSSED

PAHOKEE — "Selling" the Chamber of Commerce through membership cooperation, active C-C committees, working with local government and cooperating with neighboring cities, and developing community leadership were some of the high-light of outgoing C-C President Leonard Dobrow's talk at the reorganization meeting Monday night.

Dobrow said the Chamber must get the interest of its entire membership, to continue the growth it has shown in the four years since its inception.

Julius Moon was elected president for the 1954-55 year, at the dinner meeting held at the Everglades Restaurant. M. F. Stanley was named vice president; Mrs. Alma W. Farrow, treasurer; Mrs. Jane Rieker, secretary, and Mrs. Bertha Orr, office secretary.

The C of C decided to participate in the 12-month community beautification contest in the county, and to ask the Pahokee Canal Point Garden Club to be the "watchdog" committee. Mrs. Margaret Vandegrift represented the Garden club at the state beautification meeting in West Palm Beach.

BELLE GLADE — Brochures in color and black and white, emphasizing agriculture and its unique aspects in the Glades, were planned at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce advertising committee Wednesday.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Emmett S. Roberts, discussed with August Burghard, of a Ft. Lauderdale advertising agency, drawing up a layout and plan for the 16-page brochure. Grant Averill, committee member, showed a number of pictures and color transparencies for possible inclusion in the brochure.

Roberts, Averill, Bob Murray, William Thibault, J. B. Jones, Mrs. Mary Foy, and C. A. Bailey of the committee decided that the agricultural slant would be the greatest general interest in the new brochures. This will deal with the Glades-adapted equipment used in agriculture here, the land itself, and the lake, including its recreational aspects.

The directors, with Vice President E. M. Lively presiding, agreed to consider the problem arising of welfare cases among migrant workers in the area for the winter. (Continued From Page 1)

As of OBSERVER press-time, there was no sign of the arrival of the special investigator appointed by Acting Gov. Charlie Johns last week to look into the overall workings of the hospital.

Two nurses and probably several more are expected to join the hospital staff in the near future, Parke reported to the board.

Percentage of occupancy was 50.5% for the year to date, up from 47.7% as of September, 1953, Parke reported. Total admissions for the 1954 year were 1,320, again higher than September, 1953's yearly total of 1,080.

Among other actions, the board:

VOTED to keep the air conditioner installed in the hospital building roomed all summer, at a total cost of $340;

the hospital, following favorable recommendation by the medical board.

APPROVED employing the Orkin Pest Service on a year's contract at $20 monthly, to service the hospital nurses' quarters, and superintendent's quarters;
